Generation Share The Change-Makers Building the Sharing Economy

Benita Matofska and Sophie Sheinwald

PB: 9781447337263

£25.00

17 June 2019

Generation Share takes readers on a fascinating journey around the world to meet the inspiring people who are building a Sharing Economy. Through photography, social commentary and interviews with change-makers worldwide, Generation Share showcases incredible stories demonstrating the power of sharing.

Global Sharing Economy expert and speaker Benita Matofska and photographer Sophie Sheinwald introduce real-life examples, including a young social entrepreneur in Mumbai who is educating slum-based girls and a Makers collective in Barcelona who are reimagining cities using technology to upcycle precious resources. Together their stories and photographs bring to life the phenomenon that has the potential to cause the most significant shift in society since the Industrial Revolution.

Benita Matofska is an international public speaker, change-maker and world-leading expert on the Sharing Economy. An award-winning social entrepreneur, she created the charity The People Who Share, and Global Sharing Week. Through social innovation, Benita helps companies adapt to the digital age and features regularly in the media worldwide

Sophie Sheinwald is a photographer who focuses on brand photography and helping entrepreneurs create an authentic visual story. Her background is in fine arts, visual studies and public art. She has exhibited her work in galleries across the UK, held art and photography workshops and community-focused projects in healthcare environments.

THE FOOTBALL SHARER

Ashok Rathod is 29 years old and was born in one of Mumbai's biggest slums, Ambedkar Nagar. In 2006, he founded the Oscar Foundation (Organisation for Social Change, Awareness and Responsibility), a social enterprise that provides after school programmes using football to attract, educate and empower underprivileged children. OSCAR has educated over 3,000 children.

“Sharing means saving future generations, if we offer better education children can grow up to be good human beings, making a positive contribution to the world.

When my best friend was 11, he dropped out of school to work. He spent his money on drinking, gambling and smoking. I was lucky, my father encouraged me to study. I saw two paths in life -- to study and build a future, or drink, gamble and live in poverty. I knew I wanted to educate others that they had choices.

I learned football from the street, I learned teamwork and leadership. I realised I could address the issue of school dropouts. I saved up and bought a football for 400 rupees (£4). With one ball, I could help several children. At Oscar, we give them an education in maths, English, IT and life skills. If they complete our classes, they can play football once a week and participate in competitions and camps. Our programme has 100% success rate. When I started, the school dropout rate was 55-60%, now it's 15-20%.

We are not asking them to change for us, we are asking them to change for themselves. If they don't want to then Oscar can't help them. One boy, Govind dropped out of school at 11, because he wasn't getting enough food. He got a job in a restaurant where he could eat and get paid 600 rupees a month (£6). When he saw his friend playing football at Oscar he wanted to play. I said 'OK, but you have to go to school'. I enrolled him and now, he is in Germany studying sports management at university.”

“Football itself is sharing, because you can't play football alone -- you need to pass the ball and share it. Through football, these children are getting an education, an opportunity to share their dreams, to have a future. I have a purpose in life, to share opportunities with young people so they can rise up from poverty. I don't focus on winning I focus on win-win. Sometimes the kids say -- 'oh no the match was a draw' 'penalty, penalty' and I say 'no penalty'. With no penalty, both teams win. In a win-win, everyone is happy. Sharing is win-win.”

Series: 21st Century Standpoints

Accessible, social and political commentary from Policy Press and the British Sociological Association.

What are the 21st century challenges shaping our lives today and in the future? This exciting new series showcases lively, disruptive, progressive writers – established and emerging – who reach beyond the academy. Cosmopolitan in vision and scope, included works are based on striking ideas and robust evidence, providing a powerful platform for both scholarly and public debate.

Bringing pressing public issues to the general reader, scholars and students, these books offer standpoints to shape public conversations at this time of social, political, economic and cultural disruption. They move beyond simple critique to propose better ways of understanding and living in our world.

Money

Myths, Truths and Alternatives

Mary Mellor

What does money mean? Where does it come from and how does it work?

Mary Mellor examines money's social, political and commercial histories to debunk longstanding myths such as money being in short supply and needing to come from somewhere. She sets out a new finance system, based on green and feminist concerns, to bring radical change for social good.

What's Wrong with Work?

Lynne Pettinger

What's Wrong with Work shows that how workers are treated has wide implications beyond the lives of workers themselves.

Recognising gender, race, class and global differences, the book looks at three kinds of increasingly important work – green work, IT work and the 'gig' economy. It considers the ways formal work is often dependent on informal work and concludes by considering what might make work better, arguing that there is a collective responsibility to address bad work.

Snobbery

David Morgan

Snobbery is a more serious matter than some may think: the arguments around Brexit and Trump show that accusations of snobbery have become part of political discourse and public sentiment, building social divisions and reflecting deeper issues of class inequality.

As social inequality grows, snobbery is becoming ever more pertinent. This book draws on literature, popular culture and autobiography as well as sociology and history to take a fresh and engaging look at this key social and cultural issue.

Miseducation

Inequality, education and the working classes

Diane Reay

Diane Reay, herself working class turned Cambridge professor, brings Brian Jackson and Dennis Marsden's pioneering Education and the Working Class from 1962 up-to-date for the 21st century. The book addresses the urgent question of why the working classes are still faring so much worse than the upper and middle classes in education, and vitally – what we can do to achieve a fairer system.

Bristol University Press and Policy Press

Bristol University Press is unique: it is a young university press with a bold vision that emerges out of Policy Press' long-held, critically-acclaimed reputation as a key publisher on social issues, with an ethos of social justice and respect for diversities.

We are committed to publishing the highest quality scholarship in the social sciences and aligned disciplines and want our work to make a positive contribution, from the advancement of ideas through to practical implementation.
